

Seating To Go are really excited to be announcing the official programme for the inaugural Oceania Seating Symposium (OSS) being held in Rotorua, New Zealand from 20 – 22 November 2017.

The programme includes instructional workshops, papers and posters from speakers and authors from over 11 different countries. The breadth of national and international experience gathering in Rotorua will provide a fantastic opportunity to extend our practice, network with colleagues and keep in touch with current research, trends and practices in the area of wheeled mobility and postural management. Please also note that some of the practical sessions have limited attendance, so be sure to register early so that you can secure your space.

Introducing our Keynote Speaker: Rachel Callander

‘Life, Love & Awesomeness – Rethinking the Language of Disability

After loving and losing her daughter Evie who was born with a rare chromosomal condition, award winning NZ Wedding and Portrait photographer Rachel Callander turned her talent to capturing the beauty and abilities of other children with ‘Super Powers’. Rachel has travelled the length and breadth of NZ meeting ordinary families being made extraordinary through the journeys their children are taking them on.
